Iwaki City Monthly Event & Information Guide

Iwaki Summer Festivals 2015

Iwaki's Tanabata festival was held for three days between the 6th and 8th of August. Tanabata is usually held in July, but in Iwaki and the rest of Tohoku, it is held on a later date based on the old lunar calendar. There were many stands lined across the street, many offering all of the typical Japanese festival foods such as Yakisoba, Takoyaki and Kushiyaki (skewered barbeque meat). Large paper-mache ornaments were also draped across the main streets of several blocks around Iwaki station.

The Iwaki Odori was held on the 8th of August and drew many spectators and participants along the main road opposite of Iwaki station. There were many different groups of dancers from all sorts of organisations including Iwaki City Hall, groups of Hula Girls, Hula Oji-san mascots and even the Mayor of Iwaki participated. The IIA also had its own group of dancers with 51 participants from nine countries, with many new JETs joining in the mid-Summer dance for the first time. Thanks to all those who participated and we hope you will enjoy it with us again next year

From the Editor ● ● ●

Aloha! My name is Benjamin McMullen and I am the new Coordinator of International Relations for the Iwaki City Government. I too am one of many Iwaki CIRs from Australia. However I come from Newcastle, a city roughly the same in population as Iwaki, located 160km north of Sydney. My hometown shares a few common points with Iwaki, and I hope I get the chance to introduce you to my hometown sometime.

The mid-summer heat seems to have finally waned somewhat and it's hard to believe it will soon be Autumn. I have only been in Iwaki for a month, but I have already met so many wonderful people, and been shown around so many different events and festivals. I have already seen the Iwaki Fireworks Festival in Onahama, the Hula Girls Show at Spa Resort Hawaiians and was able to participate in this year's Iwaki Odori. There's not enough space to describe how fun and amazing all of the things I've seen and experienced in my first month, but I hope I get to enjoy the sights of the Tanabata ornaments draped over the main roads and the tastes of festival stand Kushiyaki and Okonomiyaki again.

I also would like to acknowledge that we are approaching the fifth year anniversary of the Great East Japan Earthquake. I have been impressed by how far Iwaki has revitalised itself from the disaster, but I know a lot more needs to be done, not just in rebuilding the roads and houses, but in rebuilding people's lives, and promoting and encouraging visitors to see this wonderful place. Therefore, I hope I can help as much as possible in these ongoing efforts.

On a brighter note, I hope the ALTs enjoyed their summer break, especially since things will get busy with the new term starting soon. Please let me know if you have any comments or suggestions for future Time Out editions. I look forward to meeting even more Iwakians and joining in many more festivals and events in the months and seasons ahead

-Ben 弁

What If You Were In An Accident?

Daily Life Information Seminar and Consultations

Have you ever come close to being caught in an accident when walking on the street or when driving your car? Are you regularly mindful of traffic rules, so that you don't have an accident? Supposing you were to be involved in an accident, it is important for you to act without panic. Let's keep safe by learning about traffic safety and traffic accidents. After the seminar in the first session, we will provide individual consultations during the second session.
